

Join the Dhamma Revolution

In India, Buddhism offers people freedom, purpose, dignity and confidence; and compassion for those still suffering from disadvantage and prejudice.

Please give what you can to play your part in the revival of Buddhism in the land of its birth.

Transforming mind is transforming society

Millions of Buddhists in India, many still oppressed by poverty and caste, are eager to learn and practise the Dhamma. Triratna has developed an effective and sensitive approach to Buddhism. The Indian Order is at the heart of this approach, bringing real change - social and personal - to thousands of lives.

The Need

Many Indian Order members work tirelessly to bring about this transformation, usually with much less than they need and no long-term security. Today, 1700 people in India are training for ordination, half of whom are women. With your help, this important work will continue.

The Vision

An India where anyone can

- transform their life through Buddhist practice
- train for Ordination and teach the Dhamma
- help others fulfil their human potential

How You Can Help

Join us in making the vision a reality. Your generosity will give some of India's most disadvantaged people a chance for a new life.
