

PERSON A

You mostly ask questions of B:

1. You see B is a bit shy and lonely, so gently keep drawing them out
2. You forgot how much B goes on, and wish you'd never asked, but can't find any way to escape
3. You want to make contact with B and are desperate to draw them out
4. You'd like to know A better, but you are a bit shy and find it difficult to know the right thing to ask.

Now let B question you:

5. You enjoy B's company, and feel relaxed

PERSON B

You let A mostly ask questions of you:

1. You're very shy, and find it very difficult to talk about yourself, but you like A
2. You are desperate for human contact, and can't stop talking about yourself. You don't really notice A
3. You've got things on your mind, and don't really want to engage with A
4. You can see A is a bit shy and trying to make a connection with you; so try to offer up quite a bit of yourself to them by talking quite freely and relaxedly.

Now you question A:

5. You enjoy A's company and feel relaxed
